Announcement described as 'momentous occasion' for County

By ELLIS CUEVAS
"This is a momentous occasion for Hancock County," commented Wilson

Webre, executive director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission as he introduced Leonard A. Harvey, president of Borg-Warner Chemicals-America at a press conference Thursday morning.

Harvey gave the news of the construction of a $50 million plastics plant at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Webre said, "After five years of work, it is a great day for Hancock County," especially since this plant which is scheduled for 1982 completion will employ about 100 people.

At 2:30 p.m. a resident of the Fenton Community off of the Kiln-Dellale Road reported to police that a tornado had touched down, but no reports of damage were received. Several funnel clouds in this area Saturday afternoon were accompanied by heavy rains, thunder, and lightning. Additional photos are on Page 3A. (Staff photo—Rich Adams)

The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission praised its executive director Wilson Webre Thursday night for his efforts in getting Borg-Warner Corp. to locate a $50 million plastics plant in the Port Bienville Industrial Park.

Commissioner Dave McDonald commended Webre and secretary Paulette Fernandez in the form of a resolution, saying, "The day to day operations fall heavily on these two persons' shoulders."

"You've done a great job Webre," McDonald added.

Accreditation threat eased off county schools

By RICH ADAMS
The State Department of Education has "accepted as evidence of your desire to meet accrediting standards" recent moves by the Hancock County School Board to improve county schools.

The state department's apparent desire to back off from earlier threats to revoke accreditation for Hancock North Central were revealed at a Saturday morning board meeting in Bay St. Louis.

In a letter addressed to Superintendent Terry Randolph, State Department of Education Director of Instruction Ralph Brewer delays until a later time an on-site inspection by his department which was scheduled for the beginning of the school term.

"Your letter dated July 6, 1979, indicates that the Hancock County School Board has approved a plan to eliminate the deficiencies noted by the Commission."

Beach Road lane closed

By EDGAR PEREZ
The northbound lane of Beach Boulevard from Clermont Harbor to Waveland Avenue will be temporarily closed to traffic until further notice, according to District One Supervisor Bert Courge.

The official said Saturday additional damage and erosion inflicted on the artery by Hurricane Bob has left the road in a "hazardous condition."

That portion of Beach Boulevard was severely damaged in an April tropical storm, and the added devastation of last week's abnormal tides and gale force winds have left the road in a dangerous situation, Courge said.

Crown Equipment Co. Saturday was fabricating barricades to mark either end of the closed portion of the road, with the markers expected to be in place before the weekend is over, Courge said.

"Motorists will be able to use that lane on the water side of the road for passing or to move over out of the way of an oncoming southbound vehicle, the supervisor advised."

Cleanup operations following Hurricane Bob reached a point Friday where it became obvious the waterside of the road has been left in a dangerous condition with steep drop-offs in some places, Courge noted.

"Funds to repair the road have already been authorized by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration and we are in the process of completing the necessary forms for that money now," Courge stated.

"But since there was no declaration of disaster following Hurricane Bob, we don't feel any new applications are necessary," he noted.

"So I don't think we'll be eligible for any additional money because of Bob," he explained.

Kellar seeks re-election

A.A. (DOLPH) KELLAR

A.A. (Dolph) Kellar, 59, of Flatop Community is running for re-election as Beat Two supervisor.

President of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, Kellar is a native of Hancock County and was a resident of the Santa Rosa Community before that area was included in the NSTL buffer zone.

He has been a resident of Flat Top since 1964.

He attended Kiln and Picayune High Schools.

A partner in the Turtlekin Sand and Gravel Co., Kellar previously worked with Sam Whitfield in the timber business.

He spent 45 years in the U.S. Army Infantry, 27 months of which he was stationed in the U.S. and the other 27 months was overseas.

Kellar is a World War II veteran, having served from 1941 to 1945. He was discharged with the rank of staff sergeant.

The supervisor served on the Hancock County School Board for 13 years, 1940-42.

Kellar began serving as Beat Two supervisor in 1964.

He is married to the former Buelah Friesen. They have five children, Sandra, Kellar, Lee, Becky, Kellar, and John. Kellar, 14, is a senior at Bay St. Louis High School.

Oil well declared 'dry hole'

By RICH ADAMS
Hancock County School Superintendent Terry Randolph said last week, an oil well on 16th section land owned by the school district has been abandoned as a dry hole, dispelling rumors that the structure had produced oil.

Randolph said he received a letter Wednesday from Elmo Speckels, landman with the Union Oil Company in Jackson telling of the abandonment.

"A well on Section 16-6-14 in the Standard Community was drilled to a depth of 14,450 feet and plugged and abandoned as a dry hole, on July 8, 1979," the letter states.

Randolph said rumors prevailing in that community falsely told the drilling effort was successful.

"This is not the case. The well has been abandoned," Randolph said Wednesday.

Echo, staff cited in MPA contest

By EDGAR PEREZ
The Sea Coast Echo Friday was named number one among all weekly newspapers in the state for community service by the Mississippi Press Association in its annual Better Newspaper Contest.

The association presented the first place community service plaque to Echo Editor and Publisher Ellis Cuevas at its annual awards breakfast at the Broadwater Beach Hotel in Biloxi.

Other winners of the contest were the Ocean Springs News, the Gulf Breeze News, and the Panama City News.

The contest was the first time the Echo and its staff were cited in the contest.

Reporters Rich Adams and Geri Mills won a third place award for investigative reporting and staff writer Leslie Williams authored a third place winning entry in the best news story category.

The awards were presented in conjunction with the association's 113th annual convention at the Biloxi hotel Thursday through Saturday.

The Echo's first place award for community service was made in recognition of the paper's efforts on behalf of the Kiln and Picayune Protection District.

The judges lauded the Echo's news stories and editorializing efforts designed to aid the district's board of commissioners in their efforts to raise funds for the district.

The commission was eventually successful in early 1979, and the project became a reality, with increased fire protection, guaranteed adequate pure water supply and lowered insurance rates for residents of that area.

The Echo's coverage and editorializing prodded area residents to join a new fire and water protection district, which needed $50 families to qualify for $50,000 in federal funds.

The district means better protection and lower insurance rates, the judges said.

Borg-Warner

the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission introduced Leonhard A. Harvey, president of Borg-Warner Chemicals-America, who gave the long-awaited news to political and business leaders of Hancock County.

The plant will have an annual capacity of 150 million pounds of ABS (Acrylonitrile-butadiene-styrene) engineering thermoplastics, and will employ about 100 persons.

In the ceremonies at Diamondhead Thursday, Harvey exercised an option his company held to purchase 206 acres of industrial land at Port Blenville Industrial Park.

"We look forward to a long, mutually beneficial relationship with this area," Harvey said.

"We are an aggressive company and leaders in our industry. Our products touch everyone and make life safer and more convenient."

Borg-Warner Chemicals has its headquarters in Parkersburg, W. Va. Its largest facility is located at Washington, a few miles away.

Other North American plants are located at Morgantown, W. Va.; Ottawa, Ill.; Oxnard, Calif.; and Cobourg, Ontario, Canada. Headquarters for Borg-Warner Corporation are located in Chicago.

"We view the market for ABS plastics as growing six to eight percent a year," says Harvey. The U.S. market demand for ABS will hit 1.3 billion pounds in 1979 and two billion pounds in 1980, Harvey said.

Borg-Warner is the largest ABS manufacturer in the U.S. and the world. The new plant will bring U.S. capacity to more than 800 million pounds and worldwide capacity to 1.4 billion pounds annually.

ABS engineering thermoplastics are used in hundreds of applications including automobile interior and exterior trim, parts, appliance, telecommunication and business machine housings, pipe, sporting goods and recreational equipment such as boats, campers and snowmobiles.

Borg-Warner Chemicals also manufactures specialty chemicals used to improve properties to thermoplastics, rubber and adhesives.

know we can hire quality people here which is critical to the success of any business.

"I would like today to tell you something about us. Borg-Warner Chemicals is the chemicals and plastics arm of Borg-Warner, a $2.6 billion corporation serving the automotive, air conditioning, energy and financial services industries in 20 countries on 6 continents.

"Borg-Warner Chemicals is people; about 2,000 people in North America. People are the most important asset we have and our responsibility to our employees is a primary obligation. This means not only to pay fair and equitable wages but also to provide a clean, safe work environment and a feeling of participation in the business.

"We have a totally non-union work force in an industry which historically has been highly unionized. One of the strengths of our company is continuity of people at all levels. Many of our employees have been with us 20 years, and they and their families have grown with Borg-Warner Chemicals.

"The sense of teamwork among Borg-Warner employees is one important reason why the trademark for the product we intend to manufacture here-CYCOLAC-is known worldwide and made our company the leader of our industry.

"Also, we feel it is our duty to be an active participant and a good citizen of the communities where we do business. We accept the responsibilities good citizenship entails especially for that part of the environment entrusted to our care.

"For example, there are many chemical and plastics plants along the Ohio River at our Parkersburg-Washington, W.V.A. location. We take pride in the fact that we helped the federal regulatory agencies establish the water standards used by our industry.

"Two months ago, we dedicated a $4 million waste treatment plant at Parkersburg. This facility, like all of our facilities, uses the most advanced pollution control technology available. In fact, our Parkersburg plant is in compliance with water regulations through 1984, and we see no problems through the next decade.

"Community citizenship also means participation in church, civic and cultural groups as well as United Way and we know you will welcome our people in these activities.

"We also have responsibilities to our customers because customers are the essence of any business. Our customer list is like a 'who's who' of American companies. Ford, AMC, Chrysler, and GM, AT&T and IT&T, General Electric, Sunbeam, Hoover, Black & Decker and Toro...the list goes on.

Because we are the leader in our industry dedication and commitment to our customers is a primary obligation.

"The product we sell is plastic pellets which are melted down and made into shapes for products such as a hairdryer or telephone.

"Our fourth public is our stockholders. We are responsible to them to provide a fair return on their investment in our business which means our business must be profitable. Without profits we could not build a plant of the type we plan here.

"I hope this gives you an idea of what kind of company we are. In the months and years ahead we look to becoming an important, responsible member of the industrial park, county and state," Harvey concluded.

Cecil Dubuisson gave a welcome to Borg-Warner from the State's 5th Congressional District on behalf of Rep. Trent Lott.

Dubuisson reported, "We are happy to have you in our District."

In a question and answer period, Harvey reported there are many reasons for selecting Hancock County. He listed the importance of the sun belt, raw materials, the labor market and cooperation of local officials and people.

The construction will require about 350 to 400 people for a total of about one million man hours according to the Borg-Warner representatives.

Webre

After some reflection, Webre replied, "I appreciate this day."

The director attributed the success with Borg-Warner and the overall success with the industrial park to "a tremendous commission and a splendid Hancock County Board of Supervisors along with total cooperation from the governments of Bay St. Louis and Waveland."

The director noted the commission "...should now use greater discretion in choosing companies to locate at the park."

"We can afford to do that now," McDonald said, "now that we have one of the biggest blue chip facilities here." The commission members appeared lighthearted and very happy at the meeting Thursday night when discussing their 'victory' with Borg-Warner. Members spoke of re-forming a

Bay lets '78 sewer projects contract

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Beta Enterprises, Inc., Gulfport, offering a total base bid of $199,500 on the 1978 Bay St. Louis Small Cities Program, was accepted Thursday night by the Bay Council as contractor on the project upon recommendation of engineer Joe Brown Jr.

A total of five bids were tabled Tuesday by the Council for study by the engineering firm.

At the bid opening Tuesday, Magnolia Construction, Baton Rouge, apparently submitted a $196,448 bid, but a detailed check by Brown revealed errors which when corrected brought Magnolia's bid to $200,434, almost $1,000 more than Beta's total.

Other bidders were W & S Construction, Biloxi, $209,886; Goodwin Construction Co., McNeil, $228,821; and Thweatt Construction Co., Jackson, $249,385.

Total funds for the project amount to $227,000 with construction, estimates for engineering, soil survey and administration bringing total up to $229,200.

Council designated Beta the low bidder after accepting Alternae N 80 w/c subdrains $4,497 from the base bid.

Alternate No. Two calls for the deletion of the last 400 feet of sewer line in Washington Street.

The 1978 project involves the 500 blocks of Washington, Kellar and Sycamore Streets.

A discussion was held about sewer taps for homes in the areas. It was the understanding that the project will provide a tap to each property line and the owner would have to pay the city a fee to tie-in.

In other business, selection of the Gulf Regional Planning Commission as administrator for the 1979 Small Cities Program passed on a 4-1 vote.

Council President Pete Benvenuti voted against the selection.

The commission is represented here by Ronnie Murray.

Joe Brown Engineers, Inc. was selected by a 3-2 vote for the 1979 project. Benvenuti, James Thriffley and Fred Wagner were in favor of Brown with Wilmer Seymour and Harry Farve against.

Councilman Farve moved to table selection of an engineer until a later date and was seconded by Wilmer Seymour. The table motion was defeated by the same 3-2 vote.

Seymour said he would like to see Broadway and Seal as engineers for the 1979 project as Larry Seal is the engineer for the County and the Council was depending on the County to resurface the streets.

There was a question as to whether the contractor could get started on the 1978 project because the city won't get approval from the State Air and Water Pollution Control Commission and Board of Health until the Leonard Street well and float on oxidation pond are operating.

The float is reportedly being repaired in New Orleans and plans and specifications are being drawn up by Advanced Developments, Inc. for the Leonard Street well and updating controls on all city wells.

The Council address meeting to talk with Concerned Citizens about gas rates.

John Wyatt was a spokesman for the group and presented a graph of several proposals for utility rates.

Councilman Wagner reported, "There is no question in my mind that we have a problem (with the gas rates) and that we have to help our citizens out."

Council told the group of Concerned Citizens that they were going to try and do everything in their power to help residents with utility bill problems.

It was brought out that the City loses 16 percent of the gas it purchases from the United Gas because of leaks.

A major concern is the repairing of some lines on St. John, Washington and Julia Streets.

Council member Thriffley mentioned that the current rates encourage use of more gas, rather than the conservation of energy.

The Council will hold a regular meeting Tuesday at 7 p.m.

Federal grant expected to restore oyster beds

Hancock County oyster beds which were estimated to have suffered a 95 percent mortality rate in spring floods this year are slated to be restored through portions of a $57,000 federal grant.

Rep. John Breaux, D-La., says the government soon may free $3.5 million to restore flood-damaged oyster beds in the Gulf of Mexico off the coasts of Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas.

Breaux said Wednesday the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration had been asked to give $1.275 million to Alabama, $1 million to Louisiana, $675,000 to Mississippi and $624,000 to Texas to repair oyster bed damages caused by spring floods.

He said mortality rates in the oyster beds were as high as 100 percent in some parts of Louisiana, 95 percent off

Mississippi, 70 percent off Alabama and 60 percent off Galveston Bay and elsewhere in coastal Texas.

Breaux said he expected swift approval "because of the important economic contribution oyster fishing makes in the region."

Federal agency oyster efforts uncoordinated

While one federal agency has been requested to allocate some $675,000 to restore flood-damaged oyster beds in the Mississippi Sound, a second federal agency is planning to dredge the Intracoastal Waterway over the objections of a third government entity which claims that dredging will harm the oyster reefs.

The Federal Disaster Assistance Administration has received a request from U.S. Rep. John Breaux of Louisiana to assist in restoration of Mississippi Sound oyster reefs which suffered an estimated 95 percent mortality rate from Spring floods this year.

In the meantime, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has decided to approve plans to dredge a section of the Gulf Intracoastal Waterway, despite the possibility that the dredging might harm nearby oyster reefs. An evaluation report issued by the Corps' Mobile district says the proposed dredging of a six-mile segment of the waterway "is essential for the continuation of the federally authorized (waterway) project."

The area is described as being approximately 10 miles south of Bay St. Louis, one-half mile north of the Louisiana-Mississippi state line and 2.5 miles east of St. Joseph Point.

The report says that "oyster reefs in the western portion of this section of the (waterway) on the north side of the channel...could possibly be affected by the disposal of dredged material; however, the disposal site is located on the south side of the (waterway) channel."

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service objected to the proposed dredging in May, saying that the area designated for disposal is in a productive nursery area for many estuarine species, especially blue crabs, shrimp and oysters.

"There may be a short-term impact on movement of estuarine species in the Sound" because of the dredging, the Corps report says, but "the disposal of dredged material will have a temporary but insignificant effect on the abundance of commercial fisheries in the immediate area."

The Fish and Wildlife Service also objected to the project because, the agency said, heavy metals found in dredging process, where they could be absorbed into oysters.

The Corps report, however, says "levels of heavy metals expected to be released into the water column...should not exceed concentrations found naturally throughout the Sound."

Jury issues 30 indictments seeks elimination of 'hole'

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

The Hancock County Grand Jury handed down 30 indictments Thursday, including a true bill against Beverly Jean McWethy who allegedly drew a gun on two Waveland policemen and threatened to kill them.

Following four days of deliberation, the jury recommended the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers immediately eliminate the surt "hole" off Gulfside Methodist Assembly Center in Waveland.

The jurors also requested "immediate steps" be taken to finance a new jail and office space for the sheriff's department.

The grand jury presented its remarks to Judge Niles McNeel of Winston County in Hancock County Circuit Court Thursday.

McNeel presided over the first week of the July term in the absence of 19th Judicial District Circuit Court Judge Costa Vlahos who was attending a judicial seminar.

Judge Vlahos is expected to assume the bench in Hancock County for the first time Monday.

Judge McNeel described the jury as "hard working."

"I am impressed with the number of public officials you questioned—this shows me your interest and concern," McNeel emphasized.

McNeel said purpose of the grand jury is to investigate criminal matters and the civil business of the county.

McNeel illustrated the importance of the jurors' work by recalling an incident in the life of Benjamin Franklin.

"Benjamin Franklin was departing from the building where he and others had just finished adopting the United States Constitution. A woman, who had been waiting outside, accosted Franklin and said: 'Mr. Franklin, What kind of government did you give us?'"

"Madam," Franklin replied, "We have given you a republic if you can keep it," the judge said in retelling the event.

"You jurors are keeping the republic by performing your function as a jury," McNeel added.

Others indicted include Glenn Paul Lewis, two counts forgery and attempted forgery; Deary Smiley, two counts aggravated assault; Kenny Hardman, aggravated assault, attempted rape and burglary of a dwelling; Clarence Ray Joseph, burglary of a dwelling; Michael A. Smith, possession with intent to deliver or sell; John D. Lott, aggravated assault; Daniel Dougherty, rape; Larry Wilson, burglary of a dwelling; Sidney Landor, grand larceny; and Melvin Landor, grand larceny.

Names of others who were indicted or against whom true bills were issued by grand jury were not released because the individuals are not in custody or under bond.

Of the 36 cases considered by the grand jury, two were passed to the next grand jury, 30 indictments were returned, three cases were stricken from the docket and one was referred to another court.

The jury found "Hancock General Hospital to be expanding."

"Hospital administrator Harry Gilmore," stated grand jury member Pennie H. Treutel, acting as secretary, "announced Hancock General is above the limits of mandatory requirements on salaries for registered and practical nurses, but stressed they are over-worked due to a shortage of personnel."

The grand jury recommended the hospital be given all possible assistance.

"Recommended that the back courthouse holding automobile lot be eliminated of junk cars. If it is necessary to house automobiles; a different location should be found for impoundment, making the above space eligible for parking. It is the understanding of the Grand Jury that automobiles have been housed as long as six years."

"Follow-up on these recommendations are to be re-evaluated by the Grand Jury in three months."

COUNTY HOME FOR AGED

"The old age home now accommodates eleven patients, one full time and one part time employee. Duties include lawn care."

"The Grand Jury recommends that additional personnel be added to the staff to lessen the burden, and allow another employee to be on duty during the night in case of emergency."

"It was found that one storage closet contained a loose electrical wall outlet with paint cans and stacked newspapers nearby. It is the Grand Jury's recommendation that an immediate electrical inspection be made, and necessary corrections be made. Also, it is the request of the Grand Jury that a plumbing inspection be made. Minor but inconvenient plumbing problems do exist."

"The old age home was found to be extremely clean and a "homey" atmosphere does exist. All patients are clean and well-cared for. Follow-up report to the Grand Jury is due in three months."

PORT AND AIRPORT

"The Grand Jury did not visit Stennis International Airport, but proceeded to the Hancock County Port and Harbor. After a lengthy tour of the facilities, the Grand Jury was highly impressed with the growth of the Port and Harbor and feels it is an asset to the County of Hancock."

YOUTH COURT

"The Grand Jury visited the Hancock County Youth Court under the guidance of Charles Carter, administrator who stated the case load is approximately 150 youths per month. There are two psychological youth counselors working these 150 cases at present. After discussion with these counselors the Grand Jury recommends the hiring of one additional psychological counselor and one intake unit. With these additional employees, physical stress will be shared. This will allow each counselor ample time to put his valuable time to the youths of Hancock County. A follow-up is requested by the Grand Jury."

COUNTY SCHOOLS

"Terry H. Randolph, Hancock County Superintendent of Education, reported that the county is 29 class rooms short to accommodate the school age children of the county. Randolph gave an informative report concerning accreditation for Hancock North Central School, stating that the accreditation was being considered by the commission of education. Improvements are being made striving for this accreditation."

"Mr. Randolph added the importance of passing a School Bond issue August, 1978. Of the eleven school districts on the Gulf Coast, Hancock County School District has increased at a faster rate than any of the other counties. Mr. Randolph will give a follow-up report of the monies used on land leases belonging to the Hancock County School System."

FURTHER RECOMMENDATIONS

"We respectfully request that the Board of Supervisors and administration of the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland be furnished with a copy of this report. The Grand Jury request that immediate action be taken to fulfill the mentioned request stated hereto. It is the recommendation of the Grand Jury, to meet again in three months to receive a follow-up on this report."

Alabama man charged with attempted rape

By RICH ADAMS
Waveland Police arrested an Alabama man last week after he allegedly attempted to rape a 19-year-old Waveland girl and then slashed her neck with a knife.
Waveland Police also reported a woman allegedly wielding a pistol held two of their men at bay in a patrol car for some 15 minutes before being disarmed and jailed.
Kenny Hardman, 35, 916 South 20th Street, Bessemer, Ala. was arrested Monday morning at a home on Cambell Street in Waveland and charged with attempted rape, burglary, and aggravated assault, police say.

Hardman allegedly entered the girl's Central Avenue home at 12:26 a.m., attempted to rape the teen-ager, and then slashed her in the neck with a knife, Waveland Police Chief Donald Dorn said.
The girl was taken to Hancock General Hospital and treated, some 20 stitches required to close her neck wound.
Hardman is incarcerated at Hancock County Jail under a $50,000 bond, a spokesman from the Hancock County Sheriff's Department said.

A Waveland woman was charged July 6 with aggravated assault against two police officers after allegedly holding a pistol against their heads and threatening to kill them.
Chief Dorn called the two officers, Tony Lunsford and A.D. Dorn Jr., "very lucky" they were not injured or killed in the incident.
Dorn said the two officers went to the apartment of Beverly Jean McWethy, 21, 314 Coleman Ave., to serve a contempt of court warrant against her.
Once in the patrol car, McWethy allegedly pulled a .25 caliber automatic pistol from her pocket and demanded the two officers' guns, police report.

Dorn said the woman pointed the gun at the officers' heads and threatened to kill them, and held them at bay for some 15 minutes.
The officers managed to get the guns away from McWethy, and proceeded to the Hancock County Sheriff's Department for jailing, police report.
She was jailed under a $20,000 bond set by City Judge Lucien Gex, that bond reportedly dropped to $2,000 by Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan J. Ladner Jr., a spokesman of the Waveland Police said.

Sheriff Ladner declined to comment on the bond Friday evening.

Dorn also reported his department arrested Darryl Smiley of Clermont Harbor after he allegedly shot a .357 caliber pistol at a van on Beach Boulevard in Waveland.

Dorn said Smiley was blocking the road on July 4 with his pick-up truck when a van driven by Milton Lewis of Kiln came from behind and stopped.

Smiley allegedly backed his truck into the van, got out of the truck, and began yelling, police said.

He allegedly shot at Lewis and hit the van, Dorn said.

He was jailed in Hancock County Jail under a $10,000 bond, the chief added.

Bay school patron stalled in record copy requests

By RICH ADAMS
Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School Superintendent J.D. McCullough said Friday he will follow a newly adopted school board policy in dealing with a request for copies of journal sheets showing receipts and expenditures from a 'student activity' fund.
Mrs. F.F. Holland Jr. of Bay St. Louis requested copies of the journal sheets in a letter to the superintendent June 6 and again in a letter to the school board July 9.

Mrs. Holland said the funds, proceeds from school sponsored fund-raising activities, are placed in an account known as the student activity fund.
"I further understand that receipts from these activities are used to defray various costs at individual schools and of the system as a whole. However, as parents and citizens, we are never advised which projects these funds support," Mrs. Holland writes in her June 6 letter.

"Accordingly, I will request that I be provided copies of journal sheets pertaining to cash receipts and disbursements of the student activity fund for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1978 to the present. I will request the final month at a later date when the year is completed," her letter continues.

"Please understand that I will be happy to pay all costs of making these copies including physical assistance if necessary," she added.

In her letter to the board, Mrs. Holland states North Bay Parent-Teacher Organization President Lana Noonan had July 9 received copies of 18 months of school board minutes, with the approval of the board.

"In my conversation at 11 a.m. today with Mr. McCullough I requested my copies again since Mrs. Noonan had received hers. Mr. McCullough informed me that no further copies could be made available until Mr. (Lucien) Gex, the board attorney, arrived at a price to charge and a policy governing the distribution of these public documents," her letter reads.

At a meeting that night, the board passed a resolution charging 25 cents a page for copies and allowing McCullough to approve or disapprove requests for reproduction.

"More than one month has passed since my initial request for copies of journal sheets. I believe this is more than adequate time to make the requested copies," Mrs. Holland's letter continues.

"I am especially curious as to why Mrs. Noonan's request was granted without board attention and not mine," her letter reads.

McCullough said Friday he is waiting for the board attorney to finalize the resolution.
"At the time of the first request, the board had not passed a resolution," McCullough said.

"Mr. Gex is in the process of writing the resolution in documented form. I called him this morning and he said he would have it ready by this afternoon," the superintendent continued.
"As soon as I receive the document, she can pursue the matter in accordance with the policy," he added.

"I will then proceed according to the policy," McCullough said.

Student activities is a budgeted item under support services and is the proceeds of athletic events, band programs, and school photographs.

According to 'Statistical Data,' a publication prepared by the State Department of Education, the Bay-St. Louis system spent $22.42 per student during the 1977-1978 school year.

That figure was the second highest compared to all school districts in the state that year, exceeded only by Covington County School District, which spent $24.72 each student.

Covington County had an average daily attendance of 3,180 students that year, compared to Bay St. Louis' 1,801.

Accreditation

mission on School Accreditation," Brewer's letter begins.

"Submitting a bond proposal to the voters of Hancock County is evidence of the Board's desire to correct the deficiencies," the letter continues.

"You will recall that the Commission has indicated plans for an on-site visit after the beginning of the school year. A date can be set at a later time," Brewer writes.

"It is my understanding that the buildings at the North Central campus have new roofs and that landscaping is underway. This will be accepted as additional evidence of your desire to meet accreditation standards. These items taken together will constitute the plan requested by the Commission on School Accreditation," he adds.

Randolph said Brewer's letter indicates county schools will retain accreditation as long as the district continues to move toward correcting deficiencies cited by the accreditation commission.

"We are still accredited for the moment unless the State Department determines otherwise after an on-site inspection," Randolph said.

In other business Saturday the board opened bids for a variety of school services, accepting some and taking others under advisement for further study.

News Brief

RELAXATION AND DRINKING

One of 10 studies underway at Ole Miss to identify more accurately the causes of alcoholism has revealed that relaxation can overcome, or at least reduce, alcohol dependency. The project to discover non-alcoholic ways to cope with the stress of modern life is being directed by Dr. Wayne Maxwell of the UM Psychology Department. He found that taped relaxation instruction reduced tension-related drinking by focusing a subject's attention on muscular tension associated with stress to eliminate that tension. The rate of beer consumption by test drinkers under stress decreased 10 percent, and total consumption reduced by 18 percent, he said.

questions and answers

Q. My daughter recently became entitled to Medicare because she's been getting social security disability payments for 2 years. Will she always have Medicare coverage, or will it stop at a certain age?

A. Medicare hospital and medical insurance protection will end if your daughter's entitlement to disability benefits ends before age 65. At 65, of course, she will be eligible for Medicare protection the rest of her life.

Ducomb, Favre married in Annunciation rites

Elizabeth Ann Favre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Favre of Kiln, and Wayne Phillip Ducomb Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ducomb Sr. of Huckleberry Hill in Hancock County, were married at a Nuptial Mass Saturday afternoon, June 30, in Annunciation Catholic Church, Kiln.

Rev. Austin Walsh performed the double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with baskets of white gladioli and pink carnations and branched candelabra holding pink tapers.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. John McKenna, organist, and Conrad Mauffray, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal halter gown of ivory quiana jersey overlaid with a high neck, long sleeved bodice that cascaded into a chapel length train. Venise lace trimmed the gown and matching mantilla of illusion which was held by a Juliet lace caplet. She wore a diamond pendant, a gift of the groom, and carried a nosegay of beige silk roses.

Miss Kathryn Ruth Favre attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James J. Favre, Kiln, sister-in-law of the bride; and Mrs. John Taylor, Atlanta, Ga., sister of the groom. Tiffany Marie Favre, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid; and Aimee Elizabeth Harville, Bay St. Louis, served as flower girl.

They wore mauve print voile dresses, wide brim pink hats and carried mauve silk roses.

Charles Roderick McRaney, Gastonia, N.C., served the groom as best man. Groomsman were Harold J. Battalora Jr., Mandeville, La.; and Steven Patrick

Favre, Kiln, brother of the bride. Scott Curet, Long Beach, cousin of the bride, was junior groomsman. Ushers were Michael Edward Favre, brother of the bride, and Thomas Albert Worrell, Waveland, Miss. Ring bearer was Chad Patrick Favre, nephew of the bride.

Mrs. Favre wore a royal blue polyester and chiffon dress and the mother of the groom wore a two piece pink polyester dress.

A reception was held at Jourdan River Shores Clubhouse, where bride's table overlaid with a white lace cloth, held a four tier wedding cake encircled by daisies and fern. Branched candelabra holding pink tapers were on either side.

Mrs. James Curet and Mrs. Sam Favre Jr., aunts of the bride, presided at the cake table and punch bowl. Serving as tea girls were Rebecca Favre, niece of the bride; Christi Favre and Dana Favre, cousins of the bride. For their wedding trip to the Smokey Mountains the bride chose a two piece wheat and cream color suit with matching accessories accented by an orchid corsage.

The couple will reside in Bay St. Louis.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. J.T. McRaney and Steven McRaney, Gastonia, N.C.; Alfonso de La Riente, Mexico City, Mexico; Miss Sammie Keith, El Paso, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Marshall and Mrs. Tom Martin, Slidell, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stener Jr., Chalmette, La. and Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor, Atlanta, Ga.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Stafford Peale

ONLY EXISTING

Q. My wife walked out on me claiming extreme cruelty. I have not physically struck the woman. We have had the usual arguments between husband and wife but nothing that serious.

She treats me like an ogre or monster and tells her relations that I am crazy. They treat me like an outcast. I still love the woman, but I don't know what to do.

My life has lost its purpose. I'm only existing from day to day. I don't drink or run around. Is there some answer for me?

A. Extreme cruelty could mean mental mistreatment. In fact, that can often times be worse than physical violence.

The first thing to do is to ask yourself whether you did mistreat your wife by your attitude. If so, correct that attitude; then tell her that you are sorry, that you love her and you would like to demonstrate to her that your life together can be a happy one.

We are sending you our booklet, The Power to Change Your Life, which is free to any reader of this column. Write to us at Box 500, Paying, N.Y. 12564.

AT WITS' END

Q. How can we induce the most sensitive, arrogant, meddling, critical mother-in-law that we've ever known to get some sense into her? Not only is she driving me wild, she also blames her on my husband's neuroticism. I feel like I'm being attacked from both sides. She is the only one who can't be reasoned with. She is a real pain in the neck.

but insists it is our place to take care of her. We are at our wits' end, thinking of having to commit her to a mental institution.

A. A healthy 60-year-old mother-in-law is way beyond her rights in insisting that you and your husband have to take care of her.

This is no longer a man's world, but a woman's world as well. Tell her to get out and go to work. And mean it.

If she is a mental case, then you will have to stand up to that and handle it under a doctor's direction, and perhaps that of a lawyer also. Don't let her push you around.

MOM WON'T TRUST HER

Q. My mom backed down on her word. She said I could date when I was 15. Now she says I can't date until 16. My sister dropped school and got married, and now she is expecting a child. She is 17. My other sister is 16, not married, but expecting. Now mom won't trust me. I am 14 years old, and I think I should be able to date when I am 15. What do you think?

A. Put yourself in your mother's place. "One sister certainly didn't live up to her expectations. The other sister at least got married, but had little education as a result."

You see, your mother had had enough time of it with her daughters, and she probably wonders what you are now going to come up with. So be understanding of your mother and show her that she can trust you that you are going to be different. And remember, this is the truth, your mother is the one who is the most sensitive, arrogant, meddling, critical mother-in-law that we've ever known.

SILAGE HARVESTING
Silage harvesting time is just around the corner. Now is the time to get ready.

Clean out spoiled silage left in the silo so it will not spoil new silage.

Some silos, particularly trench or bunker types, may need repairing to get them ready for the new crop.

Check all silage equipment and get ready for harvesting. Sharpen knives, if your cutter has them.

If possible, have an extra set of knives ready. Check chains and other drive parts to make sure they are in good condition. Grease your harvester and have it ready.

Delays can be costly, not only in time lost, but also in quality lost because the crop stays in the field too long.

SOYBEAN SPRAYS
Properly timed and applied herbicide sprays directed underneath soybeans usually give the best weed control.

You may want to consider this type of treatment if the weeds are smaller than the beans. Soybeans usually need the first directed spray by the time they are five to six inches tall.

By directing the spray at the base of the soybean plant, you can use higher rates of such herbicides as dinoseb without soybean damage.

You will also get better coverage than with over-the-top applications. Always read labels before applying any herbicide.

CONTROL HEAT BUILDUP
Heat buildup in your chicken houses can cause loss of birds and eggs this summer.

You may not be able to completely eliminate these losses, but you can reduce them.

First, cut grass and weeds around houses to allow more air movement into the building. Open all ridge vents and side curtains.

Also, a properly insulated roof will lower the inside temperature.

News Brief
HAMPTON AND POP'S
Lionel Hampton, who pioneered the use of vibraphone as a jazz instrument and whose innovations in the world of jazz span more than four decades, teams up with Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra on "Evening at Pops" at 7 p.m., Sunday, July 15, on the Mississippi ETV Network. First seen last year on ETV, the program includes Hampton's arrangements of "Misty," "Hamp's Boogie Woogie" and "Air Mail Special."

temperature as much as five degrees. Install fans in houses to move air and replace oxygen. In very hot weather, use a sprinkler system on the house to lower the inside temperature.
